FISH PRODUCTION INCREASING

Since the ban on night fishing in Florida waters was relaxed three weeks ago nearly a million pounds of food fish have been added to the nation's food basket, reports from leading commercial fishing industries along both East and West Coast reveal.

Reports to the district coast guard headquarters indicate fishermen are abiding exceptionally well by the revised code announced April 6, which granted nearly all privileges previously requested. The big exception was night fishing in steamship lanes. Rear Admiral W. R. Munroe, commander of the Seventh naval district and commander of the gulf sea frontier, in announcing the navy's policy to make possible a maximum increase in Florida's production of seafood compatible with military security, pointed out that the heavily-travelled routes, could not be permitted.

The coast guard reports show an increase between 33 and 60 per cent, depending on the locality, of fish caught since the ban was lifted and stated the take was scheduled to be higher as soon as available gear had been converted for night use and more favorable weather conditions prevailed.

Commercial production of fish in the upper Indian river, Banana river, Mosquito lagoon area has increased more than 50 per cent, according to L. M. Carpenter of the Spoke Supply Co. in the Venice, Sarasota, Fort Myers, Naples area approximately 100,000 pounds of Spanish mackerel were taken in the area between Pass-a-Grille and Deer Island—Key West Citizen.

SMALL BEERS

There won't be enough beer made this year to quench the thirst of all those who want to drink it. No serious shortage is in prospect, but demand is running about 15 per cent ahead of last year and production will be curtailed slightly. The beer makers are up against four main problems:

An inadequate supply of a major raw material, barley malt.

Curtailment of shipments. They must cut their freight car mileage by 10 per cent and their truck deliveries by 25 per cent.

Difficulty in obtaining enough containers.

The cost of their raw materials has risen sharply, while their own prices have been put under office of price administration ceilings.

Civilians who will feel the beer situation most are those who live in places with no breweries nearby such as rural areas, and on the Pacific coast, which normally imports quite a lot of Midwestern beer, and where the local breweries are busy supplying a big demand from the armed forces.

Transportation restrictions are encouraging the beer makers to give preference to customers in nearby territory. As a result the Eastern half of the United States will be better off than the rest of the country. More than 50 per cent of the country's beer production comes from five states—New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois.—Wall Street Journal.

DEVELOP FLORIDA INDUSTRY
Almost every day we hear of some new industry in Florida, frequently as a result of the discovery of some method heretofore unknown, for processing some Florida product.

A case in illustration is the wood pulp industry for paper making which is a very few years ago was unknown and is finally brought to light by the late Dr.

begged on the streets, demanded his State aid or conducted drives and ones; our Church, as have many, has provided food, clothing and supplies. Each year I enjoyed the thrill of taking Faith Mission children through the Florida Fair.

Faith Mission to me is more than a house than any Church or Cathedral. I was ever in the Spirit of the Master seems to hover over it. I do not claim to be a religious man, but I have always felt very close to my Maker when visiting Faith Mission.

I have never seen better trained, better cared for children anywhere. If half the children in the private homes of this state were as well looked after, we would not need to hang our heads in shame over our glacial record of child delinquency and juvenile neglect. Faith Mission children are not found in lock joints, brothels and police courts.

Despite the millions we appropriate for welfare and social work

Herty, research chemist. The result is that today we have a half dozen or more big pulp mills in this State making commercial paper and other board with slash pine.

No one can predict what natural resources possessed by Florida will become important commercial assets in the near future. For instance, who would have thought that rattlesnake venom would ever become a commercial commodity. At Silver Springs near Ocala, Ross Allen conducts what he calls a "reptile institute" whereat he makes a business of extracting or "milking" the venom from poisonous snakes and selling his products to the great pharmaceutical houses of the North.

Spanish moss hangs in the pine and oak trees of Florida for centuries before someone reasoned that it could be used for mattress stuffing and packing material.

Florida tobacco is made into cigars, millions of which are sold throughout the nation. We are told that the largest cigar factory in the world which makes the King Edward cigar at a rate of over two millions daily at Jacksonville, uses a great deal of Florida tobacco.

It is well known to many that cypress lumber lends itself readily to the manufacture of fine furniture, both rustic and finished. It is also superb for beautiful interior finish in homes, banks, public buildings and the like.

"Florida offers much to the research expert and even to the humble citizen who doesn't pose as an expert at all, but who comes to this State endowed with curiosity and sufficient industry and good judgment to back it up. Such individuals generally find something among the unexplored possibilities which Florida offers that yield them a valuable return and make a substantial contribution to the State's assets.—Winter Park Herald.

"I am Mr. Brown, the Agricultural expert for this division. Here are my credentials."

"Ah, yes, Mr. Brown. Harvard man, I see. Splendid. Now, which department do you belong to?"

"I think I would prefer the publicity angle. I have some new ideas I should like to give the farmers. Take, for example, our most delicious berries, the potato and the onion. I think we should plant the trees closer and prune the branches in the spring just after the molting season. That would give us more branches to produce more burrs. This same plan would help the peanut tree."

"But, Mr. Brown—"

"However, my chief interest is bovines or cows. It has been our practice to produce numbers of useless male cows, and this must be discouraged. Such as are produced should be butchered and made into sausage and ham to relieve the pork and mutton shortage."

"We have also followed the wasteful practice of feeding our young female cows a year or more before breaking them to give milk. I think these fillies should be trained to produce milk within six or eight weeks after calving."

"The whole dairy business needs efficient reorganization. We must teach our dairymen to specialize. The cows in one region should give nothing but milk, those in another nothing but cream, those in a third nothing but butter, and those in a fourth section nothing but cheese. It will not be necessary to specialize in butter milk. We can use ordinary milk and add the butter in a process called 'buttering'."

"We have been very wasteful. No doubt you have read about the breakage of milk bottles. This can be corrected by using larger and stronger containers, and spreading around the top. We should not blame the cows, for it must be very difficult to sit on those bottles."

"Yes, yes, Mr. Brown. That is splendid. But excuse me a moment. I need a little air."—Springfield (Mo.) Leader-Free.

the best all-round politician in the House. When it comes to horse trading he can outmatch the best of them and he is a good fellow to have on your side in a pinch. Outside of the Speaker himself Emogene has received more publicity in state papers than any other member of the House.

Legislators and bureaucrats juggled figures last week with the dexterity of a Ringling Troup as Welfare Board's Hatt fought desperately to establish proof of the economical administration of his department, claiming operating costs of less than eight percent. Senator Sheldon took his turn with the mathematical Indian Clubs to prove such costs were nearer twenty per cent. The Shands committee settled for approximately twelve and a half percent. Taxpayers learned that it cost around one dollar to give away four dollars of state money and began to understand why the aged and blind and the orphanage without shoes while the officials charged with "looking after" them ride in shiny automobiles and dine on plated steaks.

To correct the evil, Sheldon would limit State Welfare Board costs to a maximum of five percent, the same as does the Federal government, claiming such action would mean a million a year more for the old folks, dependent children and the blind. Shands, whose committee has been stalling state boards, has been stalling state boards, but "rears" and commissions like a troop of Commandos, is reported just about ready to strike. Grinned House committees have been chewing over the Financial Aid until they have developed a nasty case of indigestion. Taxpayers mildly interested, are watching the billhopping smoke and wondering whether or not there really is a FIRE.

It appears that Florida legislators are just about as fed up with Federal bureaucrats and lawyers as are people for today this week they slapped down the ears of high-powered Washington lobbyists sent down here by Federal agencies to crack whips and hold hope for lawmakers to jump thru. An attempt in the House to cram thru a constitutional amendment that would relieve REX operations in this state from all taxation, met stubborn resistance when the bill reached the floor, thanks to the courageous fight of Clement of Pinellas, Lewis Gulf and a number of others. In the Senate a committee began a hearing on the Time Change bill by Thomas of Lake. He presented an Alphabetical Simon Legree who winged his way south to "fix our clock" and rewarded him for his kindly interest and effort by reporting the bill out.

And all this happened in Claude Pepper's hallways. For shame, Gentlemen, for shame!

CINEMATIC CHATTER.....

—By MALCOLM MILLIAN—
What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

There's a mighty sweet little gal coming to the Prince Theatre for the Owl Show Saturday, and the Sunday screening. That little lady is Deanna Durbin, and she is carried along with Edmund O'Brien, Harry Fitzgerald, Grant Mitchell and an excellent supporting cast in a toothsome show under the title of "The Amazing Mrs. Holliday."

In this show we will see a Durbin we have never seen before—Warm! Vivid! Vibrant! as she tries to the fullest a role that demands all the heart, all the woman-a-woman can give.

This piece that comes to the Prince Theatre for the Monday-Tuesday screening under the title of "Flight For Freedom," is a story that has been discussed by some of America's best known writers since its release.

Some contend it is the life story of Amelia Earhart, but whether it is or not it is a great story and one that is packed with thrills and excitement.

Herbert Marshall, Fred MacMurray and Rosalind Russell are starred in the piece with an excellent supporting cast.

James Ellison and Jane Wyatt move in on the double feathery program for Wednesday-Thursday, telling a thrilling story of "soldiers in white," fighting to save the lives of the fighting men at the front. It's an interesting story, with many throat tightening scenes, some romance and clever comedy.

On the same program is a story as new as tomorrow's headlines under the title of "Wat Dogs." This one stars Billy Lee and Addison Richards in a tale of dogs.

The situation grows steadily worse instead of better. We stupidly provide laws, edicts, rules, directives, regulations and regulations, employ inspectors and supervisors to do the work that only the individual heart and mind and soul can do.

And then wonder why we fail. During the past few years this nation has wandered far from the righteous path pioneered by our forefathers. We have become hardened and indifferent to the welfare of others as individuals and have turned to the worship of false gods as did the people in the day of Moses. We have set up golden calves in the form of political boards, bureaus and committees to perform for us the tasks the Creator placed squarely on our shoulders to the end that we live to witness the "Wrath of God."

Jane Withers, with Henry Wilson and a well supporting cast come in Friday, narrating the tale of Jane in the dual role of an adolescent movie-star, and of that star's fan club, under the title of "Johnny Doughboy." It's a musical feast with a nice, smooth moving plot, that will keep everyone interested throughout its screening.

On the same program come the Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys in a story of war—war on crime. These two gangs team up and go to work for Uncle Sam with results that will be surprising to all onlookers. Those who enjoy these kids will say it's a tyranny, today in our names, YOURS and MINE; the State of Florida is about to crush Faith Mission.

Despite the amazing record of twenty-one years of successful operation, Faith Mission, because it has not been able to meet every regulation, directive and edict of the State Welfare Board and does not grovel in the dust when the power that was Caesar appears in the form of an inspector or supervisor, has been condemned to death.

Fred C. Markert, founder of Faith Mission, still following the humble teachings of the Master, says simply, "I have done the best I can, the best I know how." If the State wishes to take them children and can do better by them, I must accept it as God's will. Twenty-one years ago, before anyone ever heard of Welfare Boards, Social Security, Community Chests or the New Deal, a kindly Christian couple who had given their lives to ministering to others, established a Gospel Mission in Tampa.

A tiny orphan child was placed in their care. Although near destitute themselves, they accepted this charge and tenderly nurtured the child. The father, who asked the Father in Heaven to provide for their need. Their faith was unwavering.

That was the birth of Faith Mission. Their good work became known, and unmediated help came to them as their need developed. Church organizations, civic clubs, firms and individuals came bearing gifts of food, clothing, toys and supplies. The Mission grew, other children came as directed by an Invisible Source.

In all its twenty-one years, Faith Mission has been true to its name. While other orphanages have

Unclaimed Money In Bank To Go To State Under Bill

Legislators Believe Law Would Raise 4 or 5 Million Dollars

TALLAHASSEE, May 6. (FNS)—Representative Jerry Collins of Sarasota introduced in the House this week a revenue bill that proponents contend should raise as much if not more than the proposed tax on cigarettes and yet avoid the need for this or another new tax levy.

Designated House Bill 601, this measure would cash out all unclaimed accounts now lying dormant in banks where owners of such funds are unknown. It would effect open accounts that have been inactive for seven years or more and savings accounts for which no deposits or withdrawals have occurred for twenty years or more.

Banks would be required to list all such accounts, give public notice in a local newspaper and then certify to the State Treasurer. The bill further provides that anyone able to prove that they are the rightful owner of such unclaimed account at any time within twenty years after such monies are turned over to the state will be refunded the amount due them by the treasurer.

A similar law passed in the statutes of the State of Pennsylvania a few years ago brought in nearly a million dollars, a very small amount of which was ever reclaimed or refunded.

Proponents point out that millions of dollars unclaimed, belonging to parties unknown, now lie in banks of this state and as this money cannot be taken by the banks it only causes them extra bookkeeping. And as ample provision is made to protect such positions for an additional period of twenty years, such legislation would harm no one and at the same time would refund the state with much needed revenue and make the levying of any new taxes unnecessary.

Proponents estimate that the bill will produce between four and five million dollars more a year. Governor Holland stated was needed and for which he proposed a 3c tax on cigarettes.

War Takes 96¢ Of Each Dollar

Out of every $1.00 that is invested in a War Bonds drive, 96¢ goes to the war effort. The 4¢ goes to the military equipment. The 3¢ goes to the ordinary governmental expenditures. Out of every dollar 95¢ goes toward the war effort and 4¢ goes to the Government "business as usual."

The same ratio applies to all other securities the Government has offered investors in the Second War Loan campaign for 12 billion dollars.

It's A People's War

We are paying more in taxes than ever before... and likely will pay more. But we cannot rely on taxes to finance the war. It would not be fair to have a tax on the average single family income when many families have more than one income. We could borrow all the money from the banks, but for both economic and social reasons this is undesirable. The government would then sacrifice its greatest claim against inflation. This is a People's War and the people should finance it. The people WANT to finance it. Sale of War Bonds has mounted consistently since Pearl Harbor. They give their lives... You lend your money.

Sugar Company To End Harvest

Immediately following the close of the present sugar cane harvest season plans call for workmen of the U. S. Sugar corporation to get busy on the annual overhaul and repair work at the mill and on all farm equipment. There is no prediction today as to the actual closing of the mill but the harvest is entering the final stages. A sudden change in weather conditions might cause a change in plans.

"At the completion of the harvest season sometime during the month of May," said Jay W. Moran, vice president and general manager, "we will have registered the longest grinding season in the history of sugar making here in the Everglades. Therefore, the work of overhauling and repairing all machinery at the mill and all farm equipment and machinery will begin at once. There will be no cessation of work and no temporary lay-offs as in previous years at the close of crop. Those who are now employed by the corporation will be given the opportunity to continue steadily through the summer."

"It is the intention of the corporation to continue to grind cane as long as weather conditions will permit and the sugar yield of the cane makes it feasible to continue the harvest," said Mr. Moran.

By the 15th of this section is usually experiencing some heavy rains. Should rains occur heavy enough to delay field operations as much as a week it would bring the crop to an end, it was pointed out.

Working under the same adverse circumstances common to all industries under present weather conditions, the corporation has continued to put forth every effort to harvest every possible pound of sugar to add the nation through the war crisis.

Plans for the harvest festival, though somewhat changed in nature this year, will carry the usual gala spirit throughout the Everglades plantations. It is expected that definite announcements will be made in a few days concerning the festival date and plans.

Non-Essential Calls Helps Clear Lines for Vital War Calls

You bet it's pleasant to talk with friends over the telephone, just as it was pleasant to take those long Sunday afternoon rides when we had plenty of time and gasoline.

But social calls must be handled over the same local telephone facilities as war calls. There is a definite limit to the number of calls these facilities can handle at the same time, and when more calls are made, some must wait.

With telephone equipment already burdened with war calls, non-essential calls may delay necessary calls, so we are requesting your voluntary co-operation to reduce unnecessary calling.

Under normal conditions we would expand our facilities to care for the increased volume of calls, but we cannot do that now because the needed materials are going into war weapons.

So won't you help by making fewer local calls? And when you must make a call, won't you please try to make it as short as possible?
